Program Description

A comprehensive introductory history program is offered in the study of world and Western Civilization as well as American History. This program is supplemented by substantive courses such as Contemporary United States History; Vietnam; African American History; Women in American History; Cultural History of Mexico; History of California; and the History of Latin America and the Caribbean. These courses cover a wide range of subjects; clearly there is something to satisfy everyone's interest.

Introductory courses are for the general student as well as the history major desiring a broad background in the ideas and institutions of civilization. Students are encouraged to go beyond simple memorization of names and dates and to actually get involved with the past. Assignments emphasize research skills, speculative analysis, and original thinking and the ability to compare and contrast the past with current events. Students emerge from these classes with the sense that the study and evaluation of the past need not be stagnant; rather it is an ever evolving process.

The history major is especially desirable for students who wish to teach at any level or work in foreign or domestic government service, politics, research for major corporations, historical preservation, law firms, and other areas.
