

What Can I Do with This Major?

Psychology

Psychology is a natural and social science focusing on the study of human behavior. As such, it is a broad discipline which involves both scientific method and practical application of science to matters of everyday living. Most professional-level positions require a graduate degree. The Psychology program is designed to benefit both the student pursuing a career in psychology or related disciplines as well as the student desiring to acquire a personal understanding of psychology as it applies to everyday living. The program includes a variety of courses and utilizes a number of teaching methods, including those which emphasize student participation through group and individual activity.

AVC Certificates & Degrees

- Alcohol and Other Drug Studies certificate
- Case Management Work Readiness certificate (non-credit)
- Human Services associate degree
- Psychology Associate Degree for Transfer

Examples of Work Industries & Employers

Federal Government

Veterans Administration

Hospitals

State Government

Correctional Facilities

College and Universities

Counseling Centers

Community Mental Health Centers

Senior Citizens Centers

Social Service/Nonprofit Organizations

Private Practice

Schools

Possible Job Titles may require a bachelor's degree or higher

Alcohol & Drug Counselor

Social Services Technician

Peer Counselor

Academic Advisor

Personnel Analyst

Probation Officer

Professor

College Counselor

Employment Counselor

Marriage & Family Therapist

Case Manager

Outreach Worker

Psychometrist

Research Director

Social Services Director

Survey Designer

School Psychologist

Human Factors Specialist

The information reflected is intended to act as a tool for exploration. Please visit the Career Center for more specific information on majors and careers.